COURSE DESCRIPTION

The aim of this course is to offer an introduction to Hispanic prose, poetry and drama. This is an intensive writing course, where students read samples of the best and most renowned literary texts written in Spanish and at the same time develop strategies to improve their formal (academic) writing, by articulating their opinions and interpreting the text read in class.

INSTRUCTOR

Fundación Ortega y Gasset staff

COURSE OBJECTIVES

By the end of this course, students will have become proficient in the analysis of literary texts in Spanish. The ability to analyze, interpret and /or explain a text (be it literary, or of any other kind) is highly relevant for the study of culture as well as to convey ideas formally (in writing).

This course is meant as a transition between required basic or intermediate language courses and Literature courses. As such, it should help students bridge the gap between an intermediate and an advanced level of Spanish.

Students should acquire some basic tools and concepts to interpret the texts in this syllabus. They should also improve their writing through intensive practice during this course (individual and group work), as well as their oral skills in debates and round tables.

METHODOLOGY

Action- oriented approach, where the student is the focus of the class and must carry out tasks using the target language.

Contrastive grammar will be used by the instructor to highlight the differences between the English and the Spanish language (and specifically, the literary language).

Students will write four essays (three papers and one main essay) during this course, one preliminary (draft) version and one final version for each paper. Students will work in teams to correct each other’s work before turning in their essays.

ATTENDANCE POLICY
Students are expected to attend classes, and those academic activities that form part of each course, regularly and punctually. Credits will be received for academic performance and for the number of class hours attended.
Absences should be justified to the Academic Coordinator. 75% of attendance to classes is required to earn credits for each course. Being more than 15 minutes late to classes will imply a half absence.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA POLICIES AND PROCEDURES
Academic integrity is essential to a positive teaching and learning environment. All students enrolled in University courses are expected to complete coursework responsibilities with fairness and honesty. Failure to do so by seeking unfair advantage over others or misrepresenting someone else’s work as your own, can result in disciplinary action. The University Student Conduct Code defines scholastic dishonesty as follows:

SCHOLASTIC DISHONESTY:
Scholastic dishonesty means plagiarizing; cheating on assignments or examinations; engaging in unauthorized collaboration on academic work; taking, acquiring, or using test materials without faculty permission; submitting false or incomplete records of academic achievement; acting alone or in cooperation with another to falsify records or to obtain dishonestly grades, honors, awards, or professional endorsement; altering forging, or misusing a University academic record; or fabricating or falsifying data, research procedures, or data analysis.
Within this course, a student responsible for scholastic dishonesty can be assigned a penalty up to and including an “F” or “N” for the course. If you have any questions regarding the expectations for a specific assignment or exam, ask.

STUDENT CONDUCT
The University of Minnesota has specific policies concerning student conduct and student needs. This information can be found on the Learning Abroad Center website.
