COURSE DESCRIPTION
This course will examine dominant images of Ireland in film and literature from Romantic Ireland and the images of the Celtic Revival, to the harsher realities of Irish life and the transformations of Irish society under modernity and globalization. Issues discussed will include emigration and immigration; nostalgia and loss; gender, family and community; Church and State; politics and violence; language and communication, and the country and city.

The course will chart the pressures placed on literary/visual styles associated with Romanticism, Realism, and Modernism by the anomalies of Irish experience, framed by the legacies of W.B. Yeats, J.M. Synge, James Joyce, and Samuel Beckett. Beginning with a viewing the classic film The Quiet Man, attempts by subsequent generations of writers and filmmakers to bring images into line with the harsh realities of postcolonial experience will be examined, particularly as they bear on more recent developments of an increasingly globalised and multi-cultural Ireland. Filmmakers discussed will include Neil Jordan, Jim Sheridan, Lenny Abrahamson, Ken Loach, and contemporary writers will range from Brian Friel, John McGahern, William Trevor, Patrick McCabe, and Alice MacDermott to more recent figures such as Donal Ryan, Tana French, Mary Costello, Eimear McBride and Colin Barrett.

INSTRUCTOR
Luke Gibbons

COURSE GOAL
The aim of this course is to provide a critical engagement with the lived experience of Irish culture, as it has been represented in major works of both film and fiction. The course will not only address key themes but will also attend to questions of form and style, examining how representations have both been shaped by, and in turn have transformed, Irish society. By the end of the semester, students will be in a position to discuss Irish society in terms of its self-images but bring their own experiences of American culture to bear on the course.
