Language of Instruction: French
Contact Hours: 45
Instructor: xxx

Course Description

This course explores the originality and insolence of French cinema over the past 100 years through the prism of male/female relations as revealed in certain iconic films. The framework for the course will be a dynamic, participation based research seminar where students will be expected each week to analyze an emblematic film from a variety of perspectives (stylistic, textual, and socio-historical, etc). It is imperative that students view the films and read the required articles prior to attending class and prior to initiating their own analysis.

Course Objectives

- Students will learn about the history of French cinema beginning in the 1930s, through a unique lens, that of the relationship between men and women, as various directors have chosen to depict it.
- Students will acquire the skills and vocabulary to be able to analyze and decipher the language of the cinema, with the goal of writing about films from a critical perspective.

Methodology

The student’s grade will be derived from a range of activities and assignments. These will include: regular critical essays, a 15min oral presentation of a work of their choice in connection with the course theme of “Masculin/Féminin,” and finally a cinematographic analysis/study of an excerpt. In addition, students will be given the opportunity to engage in several initiation activities to the practice of creating movies, as well as to attend pedagogical outings to theaters within the “Art et essai” framework and film festivals, with the objective of learning about living and contemporary cinematographic creation.

Course Prerequisites

Students must have a minimum level of B1 (Threshold or Intermediate) in the Common European Language Framework or have completed the equivalent of FREN 1004 in the University of Minnesota system.

Policies

Attendance Policy
Students are expected to be on time and attend all classes while abroad. Many instructors assess both attendance and participation when assigning a final course grade. Attendance alone does not guarantee a positive participation grade; the student should be prepared for class and engage in class discussion. See the on-site syllabus for specific class requirements.

University of Minnesota Policies & Procedures
Academic integrity is essential to a positive teaching and learning environment. All students enrolled in University courses are expected to complete coursework responsibilities with fairness and honesty. Failure to do so by seeking unfair advantage over others or misrepresenting someone else’s work as your own can result in disciplinary action. The University Student Conduct Code defines scholastic dishonesty as follows:

Scholastic Dishonesty
Scholastic dishonesty means plagiarizing; cheating on assignments or examinations; engaging in unauthorized collaboration on academic work; taking, acquiring, or using test materials without faculty permission; submitting false or incomplete records of academic achievement; acting alone or in cooperation with another to falsify records or to obtain dishonestly grades, honors, awards, or professional endorsement; altering forging, or misusing a University academic record; or fabricating or falsifying data, research procedures, or data analysis.

Within this course, a student responsible for scholastic dishonesty can be assigned a penalty up to and including an “F” or “N” for the course. If you have any questions regarding the expectations for a specific assignment or exam, ask.

Student Conduct
The University of Minnesota has specific policies concerning student conduct. This information can be found on the Learning Abroad Center website.
